

117TH CONGRESS
1ST SESSION

S. 1929

To establish collective bargaining rights for college athletes, and for other purposes.

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES

MAY 27, 2021

Mr. MURPHY (for himself and Mr. SANDERS) introduced the following bill; which was read twice and referred to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions

A BILL

To establish collective bargaining rights for college athletes, and for other purposes.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “College Athlete Right
5 To Organize Act”.

6 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

7 Congress finds the following:

8 (1) The National Labor Relations Act (29
9 U.S.C. 151 et seq.) seeks to remedy the inequality
10 of bargaining power between employees and employ-

1 ers primarily through establishing and protecting the 2 rights of employees to self-organize and designate
3 representatives of their own choosing for the purpose
4 of negotiating the terms and conditions of their em-
5 ployment or other mutual aid or protection.

6 (2) Labor organizations often originate to rem-
7 edy unfair and exploitative labor practices by em-
8 ployers through assisting employees in securing more
9 equitable terms and conditions of their employment,
10 including fair compensation and safe working condi-
11 tions, which individual employees would be unlikely
12 to negotiate successfully for on their own.

13 (3) Labor organizations serve unique and essen-
14 tial purposes for professional athletes competing in 15 sports leagues, where it is desirable to establish uni-
16 form rules and standards across multiple employers.
17 These rules and standards bear significant con-
18 sequences to the athletes in terms of compensation, 19 health and safety, and the ability or lack thereof for 20 athletes to choose their employer, among other 21 issues related to the athletes' well-being.

22 (4) The formation of labor organizations rep-
23 resenting athletes in professional sports leagues in 24 the United States has helped end exploitative prac-
25 tices by team owners and management, particularly

1 through establishing collective-bargaining agreements that have secured athletes a fair share of the 2 revenues their talent and labor produces, as well as 3 more equitable terms of their employment and protections
4 for their short- and long-term health.

5 (5) College athletes face exploitative and unfair
6 labor practices by the National Collegiate Athletic 7 Association (referred to in this section as the 8 “NCAA”) and its member institutions, primarily 9 through the denial of the basic economic and labor
10 rights of such athletes, which the NCAA and its 11 member institutions have justified by defining college
12 athletes as amateurs.

13 (6) The NCAA and its member institutions
14 have denied college athletes a fair wage for their 15 labor by colluding to cap compensation; they maintain 16 strict and exacting control over the terms and 17 conditions of college athletes’ labor; and they exercise
18 the ability to terminate an athlete’s eligibility to 19 compete if the athlete violates these terms and 20 conditions.

21 (7) College athletes exhibit the markers of employment as established under the common law definition
22 of the term “employee”: They perform a valuable service for their respective colleges under a con-

1 tract for hire in the form of grant-in-aid agreements;
2 these agreements assert significant control over how 3 athletes perform their work and the conditions under 4 which they work; and they receive compensation in 5 the form of grant-in-aid and stipends in exchange
6 for their athletic services.

7 (8) To establish more equitable terms and con-
8 ditions for college athletes' labor, college athletes
9 need representation of their own choosing to nego-
10 tiate collective-bargaining agreements with their re-
11 spective colleges and the athletic conferences that 12 help set rules and standards across an entire league.

13 (9) To organize effectively, college athletes
14 must be able to form collective bargaining units
15 across institutions of higher education that compete
16 against each other, including within athletic con-
17 fferences; and, accordingly, to establish effective col-
18 lective bargaining rights for college athletes under 19 this Act, the National Labor Relations Act must be 20 amended to cover both private and public institu-
21 tions of higher education to the extent that college
22 athletes attending such institutions fall within the 23 definition of "employee" under that Act, as amended
24 by this Act.

15 SEC. 3. COLLECTIVE BARGAINING RIGHTS OF COLLEGE
